King and Queen Candidates Named For 1952 Carnival

Jack Sacher '52 and Barbara A. Becker '52, co-chairmen of the 1952 Winter Carnival, have announced the names of the twelve members of the senior class who have received the greatest number of student votes for King and Queen of the annual event. At the final election, to be held in the near future, a King and Queen will be chosen to reign over the four-day Carnival, while the remaining ten candidates will constitute the royal court.

The candidates for King are: Raymond A. Ablondi, president of the Men's Assembly; William D. Cronin, president of Blue Key and captain of the 1951-52 hockey team; Jack Sacher, co-chairman of this year's Carnival; Daniel S. Scott, captain of this year's basketball team and co-chairman of the 1952 Middlebury Conference; William F. Trask, former basketball manager and head of numerous committees; and Nathaniel H. Whiteside, member of the 1952 men's ski team.

Queen candidates are: Jeanne H. Badeau, president of Mortar Board and member of the Student Educational Policy Committee; Sally Baldwin, cheerleader and president of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority; Barbara A. Becker, co-chairman of this year's Carnival; Margaret L. Groff, president of Wig and Pen; Alice B. Hildreth, Skyline member and manager of the 1952 women's ski team; and Jacqueline C. Willaredt, co-chairman of this year's Klondike Rush committee.

Kaleid Chooses Five Assistant Business Mgrs.

Marion F. Ford '53, Barbara L. Knight '54, Diane H. Schwob '54, Gretchen D. Rath '55, and Gail Wren '55, have been appointed assistant business managers on the staff of the 1951-52 Kaleidoscope, it was announced this week by editor Phyllis H. Laidlaw '53, and business manager Joan M. Cutting '53.

These new assistant business managers, who have been trying out since the beginning of the year, have been chosen on a relative basis. Practical knowledge, as well as a written test, counted in the final decision.

Dean Lee Attends Discussion Held By National IFC

A call for acceptance of moral responsibility on the part of fraternities was a principal theme of the National Interfraternity Conference held at Fort Munroe, Virginia, last weekend, according to the report of Dean Lee, who attended the meetings. Bribing of athletes for their services, basic dishonesty between the player and the college, institutional deceit and the confusion of values represented by big time athletics were cited as examples of moral degeneration in colleges.

It was pointed out that the ethical standards of students and student groups are largely determined by the moral atmosphere of the colleges to which they are attached. Several hundred undergraduate delegates from local interfraternity councils, representatives of over fifty fraternities, and deans from as many colleges were called upon to promote and support among fraternities higher ethical standards, a recognition of spiritual values, and moral responsibilities.

"Our fraternities were all founded on ideals," the special committee working on the subject reported: "Noble and inspiring thoughts are expressed in our rituals and one of the first steps to be taken is for every fraternity man to live up to the truths in which he professes to believe and to the principles he has sworn to uphold."

Among the other major topics discussed during the three-day session were fraternity public relations, chapter relations with alumni, chapter activities, Greek Weeks, and the effect of Selective Service on fraternities.

Reports that Hell Week among college fraternities was being given up on a national scale was one of the revealing features of the Conference. "The boys are definitely against Hell Week," exclaimed one fraternity official who had recently completed an exhaustive survey of the old initiation tradition. "Everywhere Hell Week is being re-

Theatre In The Round Reviewed; Lane Finds Performers Talented

(Noel Coward's Hands Across the Sea is not reviewed because of the absence at dress rehearsal of two of the play's leading characters. Ed's note.)

It need not be the function of this short criticism to give a résumé of the three one-act plays to be presented at the Playhouse this week. Those interested in such a résumé need only pay the small pittance required for an evening's entertainment, for such was the unpolished dress rehearsal to me - good entertainment.

Concerning "The Intruder" - a most interesting play to criticize: - I can attest personally to an enjoyable absorption in the performance by a group of well-trained novices. The one glaring exception to that statement was

Christmas Party

Contributions are still needed for the special Christmas program being sponsored by the entire student body for the underprivileged children of the Middlebury vicinity, according to Bill Trask '52.

A Christmas party, which is just one phase of the plan to make Christmas happier for these children, will be held Friday afternoon, December 7, from 3:30 to 5:30 in Hepburn Rec.

Rushing Program Ends; 170 Men Accept Bids From Nine Fraternities

The climax to a nine weeks I.F.C. sponsored rushing program came last Monday as Middlebury's nine fraternities pledged 168 freshmen, 2 upperclassmen, and extended house privileges to 3 men.

The I.F.C. quota for each fraternity was set at 26 freshmen earlier in the year. No house filled this quota. Following is a list of the men pledged on Monday. Any freshman who was not pledged by 6:00 p.m., Monday night, must wait until second semester to join a fraternity.

Mt. Club Names New Cabin For Profs. Voter and White

By John von Hartz '55

In appreciation of the work done for the Mountain Club by Professor P. C. Voter and Professor R. H. White, the club is naming its newly constructed Lake Pleiad cabin the Voter-White Lodge.

Professors Voter and White have been members of the Green Mountain Club since 1918, when they started the Lake Pleiad section of the club. Professor Voter is now President of this section, and Professor White is the Secretary-Treasurer of the same section. Together they have constructed four shelters and planned the Long Trail from Breadloaf to Brandon Gap. They have also written the Long Trail Handbook.

For the benefit of non-hikers, the Long Trail is a route that runs the length of the state of Vermont. It is the path of many summer vacationists and outdoorsmen. The new Voter-White Lodge will make the Lake Pleiad (Middlebury) section a more enjoyable stop. Although the cabin is not directly on the Trail, it is within five minutes walk of it.

"It's a shame that more people don't use the Trail," says Professor Voter. "It seems too bad not to enjoy Vermont while you are here." The Professor is hoping that the new lodge will encourage more hikes and more utilization of Mother Nature in Vermont.

The Voter-White Lodge is located at the head of the ski chute overlooking Lake Pleiad. It has 12 bunks and a stove, which makes it the best equipped cabin on the trail. Construction was started in the fall of '50 by the members of the Mountain Club, aided by Joe Jones, Snow Bowl Head, and was completed this fall. The cabin will be used as ski headquarters and for overnight hikes by the more rugged members of the Mountain Club.

A dedication will take place this spring when the Lodge will be officially named and christened by the Mountain Club.

Decisions Made By Student Board

The Men's Judicial Board voted at a recent meeting to assume jurisdiction over cases of repeated misconduct reported to it by dormitory proctors.

Because of his participation in painting the U.V.M. rock, Harvey W. Coates '54, lost possession of his car until December 13. Since the paint had been removed from the damaged U.V.M. property, it was decided to take no further action against the freshmen involved in the affair.

Choirs To Sing In Xmas Service

The College and Freshman Choirs will unite to present the traditional Christmas Chapel service at 5:00, on Sunday afternoon. The service will include two anthems sung by the Freshman Choir, four by the College Choir, and three familiar selections from Handel's Messiah which will be sung by the combined choirs. Chapel attendance on Sunday will be voluntary.

Ellis Fellowships Deadline Feb. 20

The application deadline for the Ellis Fellowships will be February 20, according to an announcement received this week from Columbia University. These scholarships are offered to both senior men and women who wish to pursue graduate work at Columbia. Application blanks may be obtained from Dean Kelly or Dean Lee.

NOTICE

The Theta Chi Quartet will appear at a Colby Junior College dance on December 8. The quartet, composed of Charlie Castle, Reg Oates, '53, Bob Ringer '54 and John Value '54, appeared recently at the Sophomore Thanksgiving dance.

Reviewer Praises Oratorio Performance; Chorus Stars

By Margaret L. Hopkins, Secretary of the Language Schools

Middlebury College made its own contribution to the commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of the death of Guiseppe Verdi last Thursday, when the college choir with guest soloists gave a stirring performance of Verdi's Requiem before a capacity audience in Mead Chapel.

Before proceeding to a review of this performance this reviewer would like to make clear her point of approach. So great is the difference of opinion on the work itself and so old the battle that no attempt will be made in this review to evaluate the merits of the work other than to say that it is brilliant and moving and well worth hearing. The emphasis in this review is upon the performance itself.

Mr. Bedford's chorus lived up to its reputation of fine performance and the organ and piano accompaniment, rich and authoritative, gave excellent support. Mr. Ossewarde made the organ speak in a manner seldom equalled here, and Mr. Berger's clear and forceful piano added brilliance and point. The soloists did their best singing in the ensemble, although Miss Southwick did a superb piece of singing in the Libera Me where her beautiful execution of the high B flat redeemed some near

The Morning After

Seven weeks ago, prior to the I.F.C.'s adoption of a Drinking Code, we said editorially " There is no real drinking problem at Middlebury." It appears now as if we may have been wrong.

Let's understand from the start. Alcoholism isn't running rampant on the Middlebury campus. To our knowledge no one has sustained any permanent physical damage as the result of a dorm drinking bout. And we do not intend, here, to deliver a lofty, Puritan, " Boys, you know you shouldn't drink so much " editorial.

But when men are beginning to transfer, or are flunking courses simply because they can't get any work done around the dorms, when social pressure demands drinking, when even the women disregard the dormitory drinking rules in increasing numbers, when Middlebury is being labeled a " souse club " by other New England colleges, then the time has come to take a stand.

Any temperance worker can speil the full story on why alcohol is evil. Frankly, we don't subscribe to the notion that drinking is bad. Drinking to excess, however, is another story. But if the real drinkers were the only ones who suffered, if the only result was that the college received a bad name at other schools, we wouldn't be so riled. What hurts most is that many of the men who do not drink, the men who do not join in the mid-week chug-a-lug parties - these men are being prevented from doing an honest week's work by the inconsiderations of others. And don't think there aren't plenty of men in that class. A number have been up to speak with us personally, many have let their faculty advisors in on the problem, and more probably, still have done nothing but grin and take it.

The pressure is on. Some of the nicest guys are drinkers. It's tough to turn down an invitation to a party, particularly when the party is just across the hall. No one could really blame a guy for joining in the fun. Neither, perhaps, could you blame a fellow if he transferred.

In the fall when the drinking at football games increased, and when private parties were on the upswing, the fraternities stepped in and issued a Drinking Code. The situation as a result was taken well in hand. Perhaps, the fraternities, now that they are beginning pledge indoctrination periods, can assume the responsibility for giving their men a sense of moderation. The Judicial Council, operating under the new Men's Assembly constitution, voted last Monday night to ask dorm proctors to present to the Council after suitable warning, all men guilty of mis-conduct. This is a step forward. The proctors should take their responsibilities seriously.

Sooner or later we are all going to feel the drinking pinch. The fraternities and proctors can do their parts in settling the situation, but they can't do it alone. When it comes to any lasting change, that change must come from within each individual. Moderation coupled with a little more consideration for the other fellow, will goa long way in making Middlebury a better college.

Dean Lee Attends

placed by Help Week or Greek Week." Instead of perpetuating the " psychosis of the concentration camp," with physical torture and the stupidities of humiliation, fraternities are taking on special college or community projects during the week preceding initiation, and the freshman pledges are required to participate in some constructive activity beneficial to the public as well as to the students concerned.

HOLIDAY GREETINGS

MIDD MEMO

The patter of tiny feet in Hillcrest's halls means only one thing - someone forgot to eat that leftover breakfast muffin in the top bureau drawer, and our grey furry friends have gotten there first. The girls gaily put up with such manifestations of the rustic simplicity of life at Middlebury, but have decided to refrain from mentioning the fact to the mouseless annex girls, who might be jealous.

Although it's strictly in the rumor stage we hear that students of the Ripton elementary school are planning to have a post-Christmas party for under-privileged Middlebury College students.

The CAMPUS radio and television columnist reports hearing Mrs. Santa Claus say on WCAX the other day, " I have a letter here from little Sonny Dennis of Middlebury, who writes that he is spending his first winter in Vermont and would like an electric blanket. And oh yes, Sonny eats that delicious Jumbo bread, in the white wrapper with the blue elephants." End of report.

Letters

To the Editor:

As an experienced movie goer, I feel that I can speak with some authority on the behavior of college students in the Town Hall and Campus Theaters. On many occasions college students have become so boistrous that it is impossible to hear the dialogue. Typical were the occurrences at the Town Hall last Saturday night, when students were not only noisy but rather obscene. Such behavior is extremely unfair to the rest of the audience and helps give the college a bad name in the town.

Sandy Bing '53

To the Editor:

I'd like to register a complaint: I feel the review in your November 22nd issue of Four Ducks On A Pond is in error as to its general point of view and misleading to potential buyers of the book.

John Taylor '52, the reviewer, while he seemed to like the book, constantly insisted that it was " tragic " and " somber."

That's where I differ. I feel it a matter of fact rather than of opinion that these stories are primarily entertaining. With the exception of Mr. Taylor, all of the book's readers have found them so. Two of the stories, it is true, are sad, but the sadness is tempered by the author's quite remarkable love and understanding of human beings; two others are entirely humorous, the other three would be classed somewhere in between. Certainly none are " tragic " by my definition, nor Mr. Webster's.

The Addison Independent says, " Thoroughly delightful reading, at one moment gay, at another sad, but always imbued with a certain beauty."

I'd be the last to deny your right - no, your duty - to print honest but unfavorable criticisms. I have every respect for the intelligence and integrity of Mr. Taylor. I do feel that a reviewer who gives a completely false (in my opinion) review of a book should be answered.

Defense rests.

Sincerely,
Robert Dike Blair,

Snack Bar Survey:
Freshmen Asked Opinions Of Present Rushing System

By Walter Arps '53

(Last Monday rushing and pledging for this fall officially ended. It seemed like a good time to seek out freshman opinion on rushing. This week, then, the Snack Bar Survey asks, " What do you think of the present fraternity rushing system at Middlebury?" Editor's note.)

Frank Clarkson '55: " Good, although I think it could be shorter. Everyone is pretty well decided much earlier than the actual end, and those dinners are a farce toward the end."

Robert Gallagher '55: " Rushing committees sometimes miss some swell guys who would be helpful additions to any house. The rushing period should be shortened and there should be more open houses so neutrals can meet the members."

Ted Haviland '55: "It really is quite a strain on everybody concerned, but it is a wonderful training for meeting and getting acquainted with other guys."

Roger Celler '55: " Personally, I think the system here is better than any other I've heard of. Some places start before the first month is over and some even make the frosh show up a week ahead of time. This system does allow the boys to get to know their future brothers. The only criticism I have is that they should let the ones with commitments drop from the rushing program."

Albert Gollnick '55: " I think that the long rushing period, though sound in theory, falls down because houses accept commitments early in the season so that a freshman is obliged to make up his mind quickly in order to make sure of getting into the house of his choice. In view of this, a shorter period would be just as effective."

It's A Good Bet

By Ed Hickcox

Thousands of Dollars

A few years ago Doc Farrell, then trainer for the athletic teams, and Red Kelly made the rounds of the fraternity houses for the purpose of gathering a few odds and ends of equipment which they felt some of the brothers had neglected to hand in at the end of the season. They ended up by carting away carloads of assorted goods from each house, and from some houses they encountered double headers -- two carloads.

The situation hasn't changed much since then. The college loses money every year on athletic equipment -- not in dollars or hundreds of dollars, but in thousands of dollars. Enough dollars perhaps to build handball courts, artificial ice rinks or junior varsity teams.

Parkas and Hockey Sticks

Everyone who has ever stepped inside the Field House knows how the system works. You get your practice equipment from Albert whether it be football parkas, hockey sticks or brand new sweat suits, and you sign a little card. Later you pick up equipment for the actual games. One pair of shoes doesn't quite fit so you get another pair and forget to pass in the first. Then your brand new parka disappears and you get another one because athletes must have nothing but the best in the way of equipment. At the end of the season you dump all the stuff into Albert's lap and he marks you in, only perhaps there are a few things left in your locker to pick up on the way out.

Skis and Diplomas

Skiers are the worst offenders because their equipment is the most expensive and also can be the most useful outside of Middlebury. One top notch skier last season grabbed five pair of skis along with his diploma. The boards come to three hundred dollars; I don't know what the parchment is worth.

Who's to blame? The athletes for one. They're in the same category with the five per centers and the deep freezers. They figure they've got it coming to them for services rendered and besides they're only taking a couple of items. The catch is that they really owe something to the college for giving them the opportunity to engage in competition; those little items are expensive (ski parkas, sixteen dollars, hockey sticks, thirty dollars a dozen, football hoods, forty dollars) and the majority of the equipment will be of little or no use to them after they leave these hallowed halls.

The athletic department is also at fault. There is no real check on equipment given out, at least not enough to make it hard to get away with a few hundred dollars worth of equipment here and there. There is no call to charge a man if someone else steals his left shoe while he is putting on the right one, but it ought to be impressed on him that he will have to fork over money if he fails to turn in anything except a stray pair of stockings and a towel that he picked up from the floor. I don't believe that it is impossible to keep track of whether an article was stolen or merely borrowed permanently. The situation can be improved!

Budget Cut

The athletic budget this year has been cut. There is less money for every sport, fewer teams and coaches. At the same time there is pressure for an expanded sports program in the form of tougher and longer schedules. One way to relieve the strain would be to tighten up on equipment restrictions.

Sonny Dennis High Scorer; J.V.'s Beat Plattsburg 60-26

By Roger May

A surprisingly effective Middlebury basketball team turned in a season opening upset Tuesday night at Memorial Field House when it decisively thumped heavily favored Union College, 59-44. In the preliminary game, the fast moving Panther jayvees soundly trounced the Plattsburg State Teachers jayvees, 60-26.

Although the play of the varsity had the raggedness expected in early games, they came through when they had to and never showed signs of cracking under pressure. Sonny Dennis took care of a good part of the scoring with 16 points, ten of them from the foul line, and Captain Danny Scott also hit double figures with 12 points.

After giving up the lead once at the end of the first quarter, the Panthers were never again headed. The score was even throughout the first half until four minutes were left. Then with Union leading 19-18, Middlebury reeled off eight straight points to take a 26-19 halftime lead. Johnny Castelli, the freshman pocket-sized streak of lightning, led the drive with two quick baskets after Eddie Killeen had dropped in a set shot. Don Rowe and Dennis also helped by dropping in single foul shots.

In the second half Middlebury built up a 35-22 lead with the aid of five foul shots, but Union came back to score eight points before Rowe connected on a long one-hander. A Union set and a push shot cut the Panther lead to three points, but Dennis extended the margin to 39-34 with a brace of fouls just before the 3rd quarter buzzer.

In the final period, Coach Tony Lupien's charges racked up 11 straight points in the first four minutes to sew up the game. Neil Sheehan started things off with a one-hander and then passed beautifully to Ed Killeen, who dropped in a layup. Scott scored on a driving one-hander and a foul, while Castelli and Dennis followed with a push shot and a layup respectively. Union caught fire with an eight point rally, but Rowe scored on a hook, and Dennis made good on a two-shot foul. While Union was salvaging a final basket, Fred Brooks hit on a layup, Dennis converted another foul; and Perk Perkins got in the game long enough to score Middlebury's final basket, giving the team a 15 point lead and a 59-44 win.

The jayvees ran wild over Plattsburg with the starting lineup of Bob Killeen, Johnny Castelli, Dave McKissock, Art Johnston, and Rog Colton scoring at will when they were in the game. Castelli led the scorers with 13 points, while Killeen had 12. Both Bob Gallagher and Bill Leatherbee had seven points apiece.

Relay Runners Start Practice

Braving snow and mud, candidates for the Middlebury board track mile relay team have already commenced practice on the board track located behind McCullough Gym. Half of last year's four-man team is back in the persons of Ray Ablondi and Bill Stotz. Others out for the team are George Limbach a freshman, and Lou Bronzi, a sophomore.

Right now the schedule shapes up the same as last year: the Knights of Columbus Games and the B.A.A. Games in Boston and the Milrose Games in New York. Last year the runners finished second twice and third once. The season's highlight was the K. of C. Games in which they unofficially tied the school record for the race with a time of 3:29.1.

It is still too early to predict how the squad will shape up, but Coach Brown is hopeful of fielding a team that will equal if not surpass last season's record.

Irving Morris has been elected captain of the 1952 football team by vote of the lettermen. Morris, a native of Gloucester, Massachusetts, and a junior at Middlebury, is a two year veteran lineman on the team.

The following men have been awarded varsity letters in football:

Admirand, Allen, Alvaro, Alvord, Ashworth, Cahill, Christian, Day, Dennis, Davenport, Field, Gianforte, Higgins, Kupilick, Limbach, Makin, MacKinnon, McCulloch, Morris, Myers, Rathburn, Roy, Smith, Stalker, Taylor, Tilton, Varney, Worthington, Zabriskie, Webb (mgr).

Varsity letters in cross-country have been awarded to the following men:

Haviland, Hickcox, May, McConnell, Morgan, Marseilles, Thomson and Thommessen.

Underclassmen Add Depth To Improved Midd Quintet

By Bob Kelley

The following eight freshmen and one sophomore complete the list of the varsity basketball team:

ROGER COLTON - 6'1½'' - a sophomore from North Tonawanda (N.Y.) High School. Roger played two years of varsity ball in high school and was the outstanding rebounder on last year's freshman five.

BOB KILLEEN - 5'9'' - graduated from Mt. Pleasant High School in Schenectady, N.Y. Bob, brother of Ed, was 8th man on a varsity squad averaging about 6'3''. During his three years of J.V. ball, the Mt. Pleasant Juniors won 55 games and lost one. His one year on the varsity saw an undefeated season.

JOHN CASTELLI - 5'7'' - the third member of the Mt. Pleasant trio. John is the shortest member of this year's squad and held the same distinction in high school where he gained the nickname "Mascot."

SONNY DENNIS - 6'4'' - graduated from Summit (N.J.) High School where he played three years of varsity basketball and led his team in scoring each of the three years. Sonny gained All-Conference honors three years, All-County two years, and All-State two years. Summit won the district championship his senior year.

TONY COWLES - 6' - played a year of varsity basketball at Glens Falls High School and two years at Governor Dummer Academy.

ED THOMSON - 5'9'' - graduated from Bronx High School of Science in New York, but played no basketball there. His only previous experience was in a New York City league.

BOB GALLAGHER - 6'1'' comes from Northfield, Vt., where he played two years of varsity basketball. His team

Panther Skaters To Meet Princeton In Dec. Opener

By Bill Marseilles

December 14 marks the entrance of Middlebury College into the big time collegiate hockey circle of New England. A glance at last year's record and the number and quality of returning lettermen would convince the casual observer that if the Middlebury Panther would ever be equal to the task of tangling with the Yale Bulldog, Princeton Tiger, and Dartmouth Indian, this is the year.

Last winter Middlebury won 14 games and lost two. But lost through graduation are two of the most accomplished skaters ever to wear the Blue and White, goalie Jack Guetens and defenseman Wendy Forbes. The hole left by Forbes will be filled by a sophomore who may leave Middlebury with the same reputation as a hockey player that Forbes achieved. He is Douglas John Binning of Montreal, Canada. Guetens' absence causes more of a problem. Dave Todd was Guetens' understudy last year, and he didn't see much action; but he will probably get the nod from Duke Nelson in the opener this season. Todd lacks Guetens' class but with more coaching and practice he may be the answer. Aside from the loss of Guetens and Forbes, there are no deep holes to be filled.

It would seem, then, that the Panthers will be out to approach the excellent record made last year. A glance at the schedule will dispel any such predictions. With such powerhouses as Yale, Princeton, and improved St. Lawrence and Clarkson sextets, the Middlebury skaters, who of course play on natural ice, will be doing well if they have better than an even record.

On the forward line there are three skaters who, when they click, keep the red light blinking. They leave something to be desired as far as backchecking goes. These three, Captain Bill Cronin, Spider Gibson, and Paul Bock, will be a high scoring line, and if they back-check effectively, will enjoy their most successful season. The second line, untested in competition, will be made up of veterans Bob Smith and Skip Jennings along with sophomore Pete Cooney. The third line which Coach "Duke" Nelson is trying to balance with the first two will be composed of lettermen Pete Marshall, Harry Rice and sophomore Bob Ducharme.

In the team's "backfield" will be two reliable men. One is veteran Charlie Lauer. His spirit and ruggedness make him a very effective defenseman. Teamed up with Lauer will be Doug Binning who as a sophomore should make rival coaches and players green with envy.

Veteran Bert Rathburn and sophomore Don Menard will form the second defense.

There are several other promising freshmen and sophomores, should Nelson need any replacements.

The season's opener, on December 14, is with Princeton on Baker Rink. On the following day there will be a repeat performance. Any doubts as to the size and reputation of Middlebury's opponents will be cleared up by the two games at Princeton. On January 8, the Panthers face off against powerful Clarkson on home ice. Three more games will be played that week, R.P.I. on the 12th, Norwich on the 14th, and Dartmouth on the 15th.

Midd Quintet

was runner-up for the State Class B championship in 1950.

ART JOHNSTON - 5'9½'' - played a year of varsity basketball at Pittsford Central (N.Y.) High School. Art was the playmaker for the district champs.

DAVE MCKISSOCK - 6'1'' - played two years on the varsity at Milton Academy where he captained the team his senior year. Dave broke the school scoring record for a season with 214 points and was named to the Massachusetts' All-Private School team.

Three Hoop Games On Tap

Following the Union opener on Tuesday the Panthers will engage in three basketball contests before the Christmas holidays. On December 6 the the quintet will travel to Hanover, N.H., for a game with Dartmouth. On the 8th they will return to Middlebury and Paul Smiths, and on the 10th they will play the Purple Knights of St. Michael's in Winooski. The Knights have won their last 39 basketball encounters.

The three-game vacation schedule will amount to a three-day spree in Boston. On December 13, Middlebury will be guests of Tufts University, on December 14, of Boston University and the following day of Northeastern University.

The visiting Panthers will have played four siated teams before these encounters and, despite the fact that Midd hasn't fared too well against these teams in the past, could come up with pleasing results. Against Tufts, the Christmas season opener, Midd stands at the short end of a one-and-six record for the seven games played since 1925. During last year's deplorable five-and-19 season, the Blue and White lost to Tufts by 47-85. Two years ago, the Panthers gave B.U. a gameful of scary moments until the Boston boys came up to win in the last three minutes, 72-63: Midd has only battled five times with their coming hosts and have taken but one victory from them. Ending up the triumvirate of opponents will be Northeastern. Only against this squad has Midd triumphed with consistency, winning five of the seven past contests. In the last game played between the two, the Panthers came out with a slim 41-35 win and with a two haven't met since 1935.

misses earlier in the performance. The distasteful vibrato apparent in Miss Kalter's solo passages did not mar her duets with Miss Southwick. They sang very well together and gave a fine feeling of oneness in their duets. Most effective was their short a capella duet in the Agnus Dei. The smooth, singing tone of Mr. Farrow and the true tenor quality of Mr. Hain contributed materially to the performance.

The chorus was, naturally enough, the star of the performance. One can scarcely over-do the praise which is their due for excellent enunciation, a rare attribute in any chorus and especially one so large. Their attacks and cut-offs were precise. There are tremendous contrasts in their work, somberness, brilliance, calmness and passion, and the chorus shifted from one to another with assurance and understanding. The pianissimo passages were entirely devoid of the listlessness and dullness which frequently characterize amateur choruses and had a decisiveness and point which carried to the audience as clearly as the ringing forte. This was particularly outstanding in the Agnus Dei. Although the chorus had a minimum of rehearsal with the soloists, they avoided the common fault of drowning the soloists out and gave, rather, a sense of support, as they should.

the interruption of the prompter who had too large a part. In spite of the admitted difficulty in learning lines which, as Mr. Van Wart aptly expressed it, had the quality of "non-sequiturishness," none the less with the examples of line-steadiness as exhibited in the other two plays before them, I am astounded that the aspiring, young actors of "The Intruder" were so poor at their lines on a dress rehearsal night. If there is a theatrical etiquette to cover such malfeasance, it has been rudely violated.

Such is my resounding thwack to an otherwise enterprising and talented group. (Yes, I really think so. Take, for example, Doolittle: his characterization of a blind but acutely sensitive and greatly perturbed grandfather was exceedingly strong, except, of course, for his lines. And Ursala: steady; commendable. Finally, the Uncle: a characterization from which I got very little as I read the play, came alive at the Playhouse.) Certain incidents were handled very well; as an example, the general rise in tension on the stage when the three sisters announce the distraction of the swans outside, when, we presume, the Intruder first makes his presence sensible. I think a valuable point was missed when the Uncle and Father, who were engaged in dispelling the fears of the Grandfather, failed to show that they were also allaying their own incomprehension of the mystical atmosphere.

Finally, a look at Helena's Husband, a farce, and because of that fact a difficult play to criticize since hamming is justified. Still and all, it was good, if light, entertainment. As to the characters: Hanna, in one of the easier portrayals, was excellent throughout. Menelaus by Attwill getting off to a trying start, his anger showing a bit too obviously, perked up a great deal in his final appearance. Since I was expecting Tsumu to be a Nubian slave, I was greatly disappointed that she was not and never could adjust myself to the change.

Paris and Helena disappointed me as I felt they did not work together as a team. The lack of harmony in the dialogue exchange between Paris and Helena was very noticeable to me - with Paris bucolic and correctly farcical, Helena could not slip away from her sophistication. Bur Paris was attuned to the playing of Menelaus and Analytikos so I must lay my displeasure at the door of Miss Pettibone, undeniably brilliant in her own way, but not to be appraised out of context.
